

BIOGRAPHY

Corey Falls is currently a Deputy Chief of Police for the City of Ashland Police Department and has been a commander overseeing the patrol, detective, and support divisions of the police department since 2008. Deputy Chief Falls started his law enforcement career in 1998 in the Greater Puget Sound area of Washington State where he worked for Bothell Police Department (a suburban city of Seattle), and for Snohomish County Sheriff's office. Deputy Chief Falls has held various roles during his career to include Operations Lieutenant, Support Lieutenant, Patrol Sergeant, Sheriff's Deputy, Patrol Officer, Detective, Field Training Officer, Firearms Instructor, and SWAT team member. Deputy Chief Falls is currently completing a Doctorate of Business Administration degree; where he is working on a dissertation on the Effectiveness of a Law Enforcement Program Developed to Increase Sexual Assault Reporting. Deputy Chief Falls holds a Masters Degree in Organizational Management, has a Graduate Certificate in Criminal Justice Education, and a Bachelor of Science Degree in Health and Human Performance. He is a graduate of the FBI National Academy, has completed the International Association of Chiefs of Police; Leading Police Organizations Course and attended the Senior Management Institute for Police Course conducted by the Police Executive Research Forum. Deputy Chief Falls has an Executive Certification through the Oregon Department of Public Safety Standards and Training and is a member of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the Oregon Association of Chiefs of Police and the National Organization of Black Law Enforcement Executives.